285 Pupils in Marion Schools Receive Certificates for Perfect Attendance; Oakland Heights Heads List

Two hundred and eighty-five pupils of the Marion Public grade schools were presented certificates of attendance as one of the features of closing activities of the school year. Only pupils who had been neither absent nor tardy during the school term were accorded the distinction.

The certificates bore the child's name, reason for the award and signatures of School Superintendent Jesse H. Mason, the principal and teacher of the pupil.

A list of pupils to whom the certificates were awarded, compiled at the office of Superintendent Mason, was submitted for publication today.

Oakland Heights School had the largest number of cases of perfect attendance, 56 students being eligible for the award. Pearl Street was second with 31 and Greenwood third with 31 eligible pupils.

BROTHERS FACING CHARGES IN COURT

Victor and Lewis Myers Held on Affidavits Filed by Store Owner

When Victor Myers, 27, of 192 Farmington went to police headquarters to see his brother, Lewis, who was arrested last afternoon on a warrant charging disorderly conduct, he was met by a patrolman with a similar warrant for his arrest. The brothers were arrested on affidavits filed in Municipal Court by Miss Cleo Riemer, who conducts a picture framing store on W. Center-st. and who charged that the two had conducted themselves in a disorderly manner when they visited her store last Saturday.
Lewis was charged with creating a disturbance and blocking Miss Riemer's way when she attempted to leave the store, while his brother was charged with using profane language in her presence.
Both entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning and were released on their own recognizance for appearance in court at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

MEXICAN FLIER TO RESUME HIS FLIGHT

Emilie Carranza Forced Down Near Moorsville, N. C., Early Today

Moorsville, N. C., June 12—Forced down near here shortly before 4 a. m., Capt. Emilie Carranza expected to resume his attempted flight from Mexico City to Washington before noon.
After landing in a field four miles from here, guided only by the light from an automobile, the flier immediately went to sleep in a local hotel. The landing was made at 3:45 a. m., after the flier had circled the town several times in search of a place to land.
The Mexican brought his plane to earth in the midst of an electrical storm.
Shortly before 9 o'clock this morning a local welcoming committee went to the flier's hotel, where he was still sleeping. Carranza was, it was said, "completely exhausted" after battling his way northward through the fog, which he encountered over the Carolina.

Says Children Must Be More Careful in Riding Vehicles on Sidewalks

Numerous complaints received at the office of Mayor Earl Hazen against children playing on the sidewalks with bicycles, wagons and other wheeled vehicles, has prompted him to issue a statement asking that parents take some steps to eliminate the trouble.
"I am receiving complaints nearly every day from citizens who have had narrow escapes from being struck by children riding bicycles and other wheeled vehicles on the sidewalks," the mayor said. "While I do not care to interfere in any way with the playing of the children, I believe parents should see to it that more care is exercised by the youngsters in riding their vehicles on the sidewalks. There is an ordinance against the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks and if this form of nuisance continues, it will be necessary to take more severe steps to check it," the mayor said.

SHOWING OF CIRCUS HERE IS POSTPONED

Morton Outfit Held Up by Financial Difficulties at Gary, Ind.

The Bob Morton circus, to have been staged here yesterday, today and Wednesday under auspices of Radnor Grotto, local Masonic organization, will not show here as planned, according to members of the Grotto today. The appearance of the circus here has been postponed until a later date.
The halo of romance thrown about circus life by the movies by having the sheriff attach the tent, elephants and hot dog stands only to be fooled by the news who later marries the ring master's beautiful daughter, was a little too realistic to be wanted for members of the Bob Morton circus. According to word received here today, the show is in financial difficulties in Gary, Ind., and will be unable to fill the engagement in Marion.
A representative of the bareback riders, the strong woman and other members of the circus troupe wired the Grotto committee in an attempt to stage the show here next week.
From the contents of the telegram it appears that Bob Morton, owner of the circus, is in full possession of the tent, but that is all. The show folk have the show and are willing to come here without Mr. Morton and his tent if the Grotto committee can find a theater or other suitable building.
It was stated today that all money collected from advance ticket sales and sale of advertising would be refunded.

AUTO STOLEN HERE FOUND IN CHICAGO

Three Boys Arrested for Theft of Machine from C. R. Frye

A Chevrolet sedan belonging to C. R. Frye taken from E. Center-st. and Broadway last Wednesday night has been located in Chicago and three boys who are said to have taken the machine are under arrest in that city.
A telegram announcing the recovery of the car, was received at police headquarters here late yesterday from W. Connor, deputy commissioner of detectives of Chicago. According to the telegram the boys are wards of the juvenile court in that city and it is not probable that they will be brought back here for trial.
McNeal's orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion and to top everything off there will be a community sing after the rest is all over. Anyone who does not have a way of getting out is instructed to call R. O. Williamson, who will see that transportation is provided.

HIGHWAYS
and BYWAYS

BY BOB ELLIOTT

ONCE more Ohio baseball fans are beginning to look up and hope as the Cincinnati Reds continue their mad pace in the National League. Starting out the season like a very usual ball club they have for the last month set a pace that the other clubs, outside of the Giants and Cards, have failed to follow.

Looking over the Red lineup you just sit and wonder how they do it. There they stand, just like one of those Ham's battalions, refusing to budge one foot out of that first place position. They have set a defensive record that gives promise of making history if they can only maintain it. The combination of Ford, Fritz and Kelly has yielded off more double plays than any other two teams combined. At the last available notice their double plays totaled 77 with about 40 games stacked away. And so the fans keep on hoping, hoping for the championship, yet fearing that that wonderful combination cannot last. We see no reason why it should not, but there's nothing on an uncertain as the grand old game of baseball. Well, here's hoping, because it's been a long time since we have seen that greatest of all baseball sights.

HARRY SCHWAB, former member of the Eagles baseball team here and up to today a member of the Columbus Association baseball team, was named yesterday to the Canton club of the Central league.

Harry, as he was known to members of Marion's sporting fraternity, was one of the best players ever to perform here in the cage sports. As center of the Eagles cage team he was almost always near the top of the scoring column. This year Harry made his debut in fast baseball company with the Columbus outfit. He was played regularly from the first of the season until he was hit, that time of all ball players, a hitting slump. Harry was benched and has not been very much active since since his slump started. However, he was kept up to the present time for utility purposes. We expect to see him back soon, especially with the sale of "Jersey Joe" Stripp to the Cincinnati Reds.

It is rapidly beginning to look as if the so-called race in the American League is going to be all over by the fourth of July. Those sportswriters of Mr. Miller Huggins are meaning things up about as well as any team possibly would. At the present time, June 9, they are sporting a measly nine and a half game lead, which ought to be good enough to win any old league contest.

One object in writing this little note is to bring to you a story which appeared in a city paper a few days ago. It stated that the only way to stop that crew of ball murderers was to go after them in their own way, simply abandon the old system of conditioning and playing for a single run and use the hit and run exclusively. Incidentally it expressed the opinion of most of the nation's sport writers, but the other teams can't see it that way, and so on the Yankees go winning, winning and winning and all on account of—Sh Well.

In Scotland the game of golf has always been democratic. Rich, wealthy, poor, and miner are all equal on the links—except in the matter of skill. There the miner is often the best man.

The Lutheran recreational baseball team continued its mad pace through Sunday School League No. 2 by handing the Lee Street Presbyterians their second setback of the season 4-1 yesterday.

Red last was the main theme in the game of the former pace setters. All he did was to sock two homers out of four times at bat, scoring two runs himself and being directly responsible for one more. Baruch, the Lutheran hurler, held the Lee Street boys to three lonely singles, two of which were combined in the first inning to score the Lee Street's single tally.

Epworth Juniors found little trouble in the first Reformed team, handing it a 6-1 setback. Both teams got eight hits, but errors were responsible for most of the Methodists' runs. Shultz was nearly immoveable in the pitcher and received fairly good support from his team.

Forest Lawn sprung the big surprise of the day by giving the U. B.'s a stiff battle before they succumbed by a 2-1 score. This was by far the tightest game of the day.

Christian fairly swamped Presbyterian, handing them a 12-2 defeat. The Presbyterians have yet to register their first victory. Fetter and Rinnert were the hitting stars of the Christian team. Fetter garnered three doubles and Rinnert was right behind him with two doubles and a single.

Tonight's games in League No. 1 will find Wesley and Presbyterian at Fair-Hill; Trinity and Epworth Seniors at Silk Mill; St. Marks and Christian at Central; Calvary and Epworth No. 1 at Lincoln Park. The best game of the lot should result from the St. Marks-Christian struggle. Wesley should defeat Presbyterian and Epworth Seniors should find little trouble with Trinity. Calvary should easily maintain its first place berth against the Epworth No. 1 outfit.

HIGH HATS GENE

When King Gene Tunney of the heavyweights visited Yale and lectured on Shakespeare to the undergraduates he gave his fight fans a shock. A successor to the mighty John L. Corbett and Dempsey lecturing on literature? Now Tunney steals Tunney's thunder by visiting West Point and talking to the cadets not on their Wild or Voltaire, but upon the needed methods of getting over a belly right cross and a flaming left jab. But the Australian heavy got a little "high hat" before he descended on the above photo will bear witness.

HOMESTEAD GRAYS
HERE SUNDAY WITH GALAXY OF STARSMartin Dihigo, Joe Williams and "Rags" Roberts Head
Star Lineup

One of the best baseball attractions of the current season is scheduled for next Sunday afternoon, when the Homestead Grays tackle the Eagles at Lincoln Park.

The visitors, who made their initial appearance on a local diamond last year, will present an strong lineup as the one they had last year, if not stronger. One new addition to the colored star's lineup will be in the person of Martin Dihigo, a new infielder added to the Grays' lineup at the end of last season. Dihigo is a Cuban and is touted by some critics as the greatest Cuban ballplayer that ever lived. Joe Williams, the Grays' 52-year-old butler, is well winning games and according to all reports has lost none of the speed that made him feared wherever his team played. Those who saw him in action at the game last year will never forget that fast ball of his which faintly resembled a pea as it approached the plate.

Also, the visitors boast the hardest right-hand hitter in baseball in John Beckwith. Claims are made that he hits a ball harder than any other player of either his race or the white race. He plays infield for the Pittsburgh aggregation.

Last but not least in the crown of the outfit, "Rags" Roberts. He is said to be a second Nick Atkinson and if this statement is true none need worry about not getting their money's worth.

REDS DOWN GIANTS
WITH LATE RALLYCards Defeat Boston To Stay Within Two Games of Reds

New York, June 12—One reason why the Cincinnati Reds are leading the National League parade is that they are strong finishers, winning many of their late victories in late innings. Yesterday they pushed off the New York Giants again, 7 to 5, by scoring five runs in the ninth. Val Piniola's second home run of the afternoon sent in the winning runs.

Grover Alexander, pitching mainstay of the St. Louis Cardinals, regained his form and beat Boston 8 to 1, the Cards staying within two games of the Reds. Alex made it a perfect day by blowing himself to one of those trick Boston home runs.

With Gene Bush doing the throwing, the Cubs stymied Brooklyn, 3 to 1, and closed in on the Giants. Hack Wilson, partly Cub outfielder, executed a perfect swan dive and saved Bush's bacon when he caught a low liner with two men on base.

Playing ping pong instead of base ball, the Pirates made five errors and lost to the Phillies, 6 to 4. The Phils. have capped their three last four starts and now boast a grand total of ten victories.

FAVORITES BEATEN IN RACES AT SANDUSKY

Sandusky, June 12—Three races, a 2:15 pace, a 2:20 trot, and a maiden pace were on the program for the second day of the Short Ship harness racing program scheduled for today.

Yesterday's races resulted in the favorites being beaten in each of the three races run off.

LINA MAN LEADS
Cleveland, June 12—Leonard Schmitt, Lina, was better today in the qualifying round of the Ohio National District open golf match at Beachwood Country Club here. He scored 166.

FRANK G. MENKE
PICKING up scraps are piercing through the ozone which are the fumes of New York. We are not a new nation, but a new racket, but this time, the racket is not those of fighters, but of the sucker public. The racketeers and judges—those without a "pull" are ramped on the streets and sobbing aloud. According to some of the racketeers, if you haven't a "pull" the pickings are good.

Charge Fossilism
One of the racket kind is that the disgruntled officials are not those who have the "right track" get the fancy salaries, jobs while the refereeing and judging at the small-paying clubs is their only portion.

The Commission according to its original plan, works its referees and judges on what might be termed an equitable plan; that it assigns all its officials in rotation to the big championship battles where the wages paid are infinitely higher than is doled out by the smaller clubs.

But that plan, say the unhappy ones, apparently has been overlooked.

Some Official Report
Some officials repeat at big bouts, while others get nothing but an occasional job at a small club—or no job

FORMER LOCAL MAN
GIVEN COMMISSION

L. M. Vaughan Made Colonel on Staff of Kentucky
Governor

L. M. Vaughan, former Marion chancelor of Commerce, has been appointed a Kentucky Colonel by Governor F. D. Sammons of that state. The honorary title was given Mr. Vaughan at a recent banquet in Cincinnati when about 100 Middleboro, Ky., Chamber of Commerce members met with Cincinnati Chamber members. Governor Sammons was the speaker and paid a high tribute to Vaughan in his address. For constructive work in development of a program of upbuilding Southeastern Kentucky.

Following is an extract from a Cincinnati newspaper account reporting the banquet:
"Gov. F. D. Sammons delivered a rousing talk along the lines of progress in keeping with his program for state development. The address was broadcast by WLW. The governor commissioned Lawrence M. Vaughan, secretary of the Middleboro Chamber of Commerce, a colonel in his staff."
"There is a fine young man here who is secretary of the Middleboro Chamber of Commerce. He came from Ohio and has made a big success," said Governor Sammons. "He is the kind of a man that I hope Ohio will continue to send him on my staff as a Kentucky colonel."

"You break it — we fix it."

IN YOUR GARDEN

BUTTERFLY FLOWER IN GARDEN

Magnificent pole of achimanthus are fascinating exhibits of flower shows and in florists' windows and the idea is prevalent that this is a greenhouse plant. On the contrary it is an easily grown garden annual that has been adopted by the green house men and converted into a winter beauty. Under greenhouse conditions and by pinching back and training the plant they are developed into magnificent pyramidal covered with bloom so completely that the foliage is not in evidence.

It is an easily grown garden annual, coming into bloom from seed in a short time and continuing to cover itself with its airy, dainty bloom all summer. In the garden it is not practical to carry on the pinching and training into pillars practiced by the greenhouse man. The plant naturally sprays and its wiry branches cover considerable space, looking the rather compact and stiff form of the pot plant. It, however, has the same wealth of bloom in the open but it is so distributed that the handsome foliage adds to its attractiveness.

The dwarf large-flowered forms are better for the garden than the Wisconsin type which is usually grown in conservatories, making much greater length of stem. The small butterfly shaped flowers in various ground colors with blotches either of lighter or darker coloring, will be a constant delight and sprays are beautiful material for cutting. It likes rich soil and suffers in dry, hot spells, so care must be taken to give it water. Take the nozzle off the hose and let a gentle stream soak in about the roots of the plant. Its structure is so fragile that a stream of any force upon the plants beat them down.

Despite its Name the Achimanthus is Beautiful in the Garden.

Heavy rains flatten a planting at times but they regain their poise in a few days and renew the cloud of blue blossoms. Sow in rows in the seed bed, covering lightly and transplant into their permanent quarters when they have made four true leaves. Give the plants a foot each way. They will cover the space in reasonably fertile soil and with good cultivation.

The achimanthus will prove a delightful novelty to many gardeners who have regarded it only as a greenhouse plant. It is no more a hothouse subject than the calceolus or larkspur.

Each Film Star Has Own
Favorite "Tear Jerker"

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 12—
When "Tobani" composed "Hearts and Flowers" little did he dream that he'd written the champion "tear jerker" of the movie stars.

A "tear jerker" is studio parlance for music that will inspire tears for music in a film play.
Each star has her own favorite "tear jerker" or "tear jerker," but of them all, according to a survey of "inspiration music" made at one of the big studios, "Hearts and Flowers" scores the even hundred.

Every feminine player listing to her favorite crying music always adds "Hearts and Flowers" to her list of preferences. It is a general inspiration to tears, the Lon Chaney admits it can make him cry.

"I believe it is because the tune has been used so many years on the stage for sad scenes and that it has this universal appeal for lachrymose scenes," he said, "or else that the old stage producers picked it as the one tune best suited psychologically to inspire the most general weep. Anyway, as on the stage, it reigns on the screen today as the one sure fire piece of crying aid."

Marceline Day can cry most easily when "Rock A Bye Baby" is played—in fact, the musicians sometimes play it for fun just to make her cry. Failing this—"Hearts and Flowers" is her next big bet.

Renee Adore likes "Melody in F" by Rubenstein for her weeping moments—but again, can do a good job on the Tobani classic.
Norma Shearer finds "Trau-erie" the best incentive to lachrymal precipitation, with "Hearts and Flowers" a runner-up.

Joan Crawford places "Macush-la" first as a crying aid.
Incidentally, "Macushla" is Herbert Brennon's favorite music while working out a sad scene.
But, he, too, weeps for "Hearts and Flowers."

"Let the rest of the world go by," "Mother Machree," "The Berceuse from Jocelyn" and "Swanee River" are other highly esteemed "tear jerkers" used on sets by the "inspirational" orchestras.

All the oil paintings in the Louvre, the famous art gallery in Paris, have now been examined by X-rays, which show whether certain paintings were used by the artist or if the picture has been "touched up." The result is that many pictures are now classified as "attributed to" certain artists rather than
"by" them.

DECLINE SHOWN IN
BIRTHS AND DEATHS

Totals for May Fall Below
April Record in Marion, Registrar Reports

A decrease in both births and deaths during May under totals of April is shown in a report for the month completed by Miss Mary Ellen Kerr, registrar, yesterday. Forty-three births, 25 boys and 18 girls, were reported during May, compared to 52 boys and 25 girls in April. Deaths during May numbered 22 compared to 40 for April.
Three violent deaths were included in the list for the month, that of Henry Pace, who died at the City Hospital as the result of being beaten with a stone in the hands of a robber at his home, a woman who committed suicide on May 21 by taking poison and Samuel Topper, who committed suicide by hanging himself in the county jail the following day.

Organic heart disease, influenza, pneumonia and uremia poisoning each caused the death of three during the month. There were also three still-born cases. Two deaths were caused by old age and cerebral hemorrhage and there was one death each from dilation of the heart, arteria sclerosis, chronic myocarditis, acute bronchitis intestinal nephritis, peritonitis, adenitis, apoplexy, cancer and cancer of the stomach.

reign of Leo XIII, but was abandoned to more urgent works re-renewed and approved the protreasuries. Many objects which were previously laid aside in the Middle Ages, and have now acquired great historical and artistic interest, may still be found untouched where they are hidden.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been overstimulated, and food sour. The corrective is an alkali, which neutral-izes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.
One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You since 1875.—Adv.

It's Getting Closer and Closer

Be on the Lookout for It

In Days of Old

Not so long either, for five or six generations does not cover a long period of years, we had no banks or banking institutions in this country. People had no place to keep their savings except in their own particular hiding places where money was neither safe nor did it draw interest.

Today your money is not only safer in a bank but it works for you while you have it on deposit by drawing you a liberal

1-2 Tons of Dynamite in Giant Blast at Quarry

ABOUT once a year the John Evans Lumber & Stone Co., which is the quarry, celebrates the blasting of dynamite. And, it turns out the biggest and dustiest celebration of the year.

This year's event came yesterday afternoon when Daniel Evans, general manager, gave the signal that set off one and one-half tons of dynamite in the Evans quarry.

The charge disintegrated between thirty-five and forty thousand tons of stone.

The blasting is one of the most spectacular sights of industrial Marion and always draws a number of interested spectators.

Two and one-half tons of stone is usually disintegrated for each pound of dynamite used.

Mr. Evans yesterday estimated that the blasting, which lasted about four seconds, cost in the neighborhood of $4,000. Of this amount, he said $2,400 goes for dynamite, about $400 for fuse and about $1,200 for the labor and work of drilling.

The blasted stone extended about 410 feet in length and about 40 feet in depth.

Motion and still pictures of the explosion, which sends the mass of rock high into the air, were taken by Adam Bauer, local photographer. Mr. Bauer has taken pictures of dynamiting at the Evans quarry for several years.

AUTOISTS ARE FINED, LOSE DRIVING RIGHT

Two Men Plead Guilty to Operating Cars While Intoxicated

Grover Crisinger, 144 Waterloost, and Howard Myers, 928 W. Center, who were arrested Saturday night on charges of driving automobiles while in an intoxicated condition, each drew a fine of $100 and costs and suffered the suspension of the right to drive an automobile for six months, when they pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge W. H. Martin yesterday afternoon.

Crisinger, who first pleaded not guilty, saying he had had but one drink changed his plea later in the afternoon and was sentenced. Myers paid his fine and was released while Crisinger was taken to the county jail.

PLACE NEW ROOF ON BILL FAMILY HOME

Improvement Work Done in Movement To Aid Blind Couple

With roofing contributed by four Marion lumber companies and a fund collected by employees of the Erie Roundhouse, work of newly roofing the home of Harry Hill, 376 Locust, is in progress at the present time. The four companies furnishing the material were Sluener Lumber & Coal Co., Baldard & Schlieht, L. E. Adams and H. C. King.

The porch is being repaired and the chimney rebuilt at the expense of Mr. Hill with contributed materials.

The home is being purchased by the King's Daughters, with money contributed by various charitable organizations throughout the city, for the Hill family, of which both father and mother are blind.

Don't be afraid to speak out loud. The world is too busy to listen to whisperers.

USE FLY-TOX MOSQUITOES KILLED WITH FLY-TOX

In one minute all the mosquitoes in a room can be killed. Simply take a FLY-TOX Hand Sprayer, fill with FLY-TOX and fill the upper half of the room with the fine atomized spray. It will slowly settle to the floor killing all insects in the room. Spray the ceiling, hangings and closets where the mosquitoes hide, and also spray on the screens. FLY-TOX will not stain fabrics, draperies or the most delicate fabrics. It has a pleasing fragrance, is absolutely harmless to people but sure death to insects. Does not matter whether windows and doors are open or closed. FLY-TOX is the product developed at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Every bottle guaranteed. —Adv.

CITY BRIEFS

Held Last Night—Funeral services were conducted yesterday morning at the C. E. Curtis & Co. Undertaking Parlor for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Shuler, a former Marion woman who died in the St. Elizabeth Hospital, Columbus, Saturday. Interment was in Marion Cemetery.

Funeral Services—Last rites for Miss Jessie G. Crow, who died in a Columbus hospital Thursday, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the home of her brother, Rev. Howard L. Olin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. The body was laid to rest in Marion Cemetery.

On Fishing Trip—H. F. Waples, Marion Township clerk, and H. T. Wiant, secretary of the American Building & Loan Co., are on a three weeks fishing trip at a camp near the Minnesota and Canadian border line.

Reports Theft—Mrs. Edna M. Travis, county health nurse, reported to police this morning that a spare tire and rim had been stolen from her Ford coupe yesterday. Mrs. Travis was unable to say whether the theft had taken place while the car was parked in front of her home on Vine or at Mosher, where she made calls yesterday.

Miss Wednesday—Rev. Samuel Steffens, pastor of the M. E. Church at Galion, will conduct funeral services for Albert H. Kinney, who died yesterday, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his late home, 1219 E. Center. Burial will be at Plymouth, O.

Friend Charged—Charged with selling a quantity of furniture for $45 which she represented was free of incumbrance but on which there was a mortgage for $150, Mrs. Della Willis, 21, of 183 Sharp-st., was arrested yesterday afternoon on an affidavit filed in Municipal Court by H. F. Hacker, charging fraud. She was later released on her own recognizance for her appearance in court today. The affidavit charged that the furniture, which included a Victoria, had been purchased by Ruth Hacker.

Permits Issued—Building permits for a dwelling to cost $2,000 was issued from the office of the City Clerk yesterday afternoon to Marvin C. Thomas, Claret-av. The dwelling will be of frame construction and will be built on Kenmore-av. A permit for a garage to cost $100 to be built at the same place, was also taken out by Mr. Thomas. A permit to remodel a dwelling at a cost of $2,000 was taken out by John B. Kerr, 182 Bain-av.

Arrested in Galion—Frank O'Dowd, 32, was arrested at Galion last night and brought back to this city today.

Never Heard of A Medicine Like Konjola Before

"It Completely Relieved My Neuritis and Stomach Trouble," Writes This Lady

MRS. J. N. BRYANT

"An operation of several months ago left my whole system in a weak and run-down condition and I was never able to find a remedy to build me up until I started with Konjola," writes Mrs. J. N. Bryant, 162 Westview Ave., Barborton, Ohio, (near Akron.)

"I suffered most with neuritis pains in the back of my head and in my arms and shoulders. My arms hurt me so bad I couldn't raise them up to my head. Even my fingers were affected and I could not close my hand. Stomach trouble also caused me a lot of misery and my nerves were so unstrung that it was almost impossible for me to sleep at night."

"I started with Konjola and it completely relieved my neuritis and stomach trouble. Now I don't have a ache or a pain anywhere and my nerves are quiet and steady. I never heard of a medicine like Konjola before and it will always receive my highest praise."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that have been going on for years. At the same time more work and endurance have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Gump Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

Says Hoover Can Maintain Close Alliance Between Agriculture and Industry

Beckett, Floor Manager for Secretary, Believes Cabinet Member Most Acceptable to Both Groups; Recalls Activities of Post-War Days

By U. S. SENATOR FREDERICK A. BECKETT
(One of Herbert Hoover's Floor Managers)

Kansas City, June 12.—Herbert Hoover will be nominated and elected president of the United States because he answers, above all other candidates, the demand of the American people for a Republican nominee, who can maintain an alliance between agriculture and industry.

The Republican party came into existence when agriculture and industry joined forces and it was this alliance which carried the Republican party through four years of success.

Herbert Hoover is the candidate most acceptable to both groups.

The appeal which Hoover makes to the farm people and politically minded is positively strong. They appreciate the efforts he made almost single handed in the post-armistice period, when the European nations, freed from the continuance of the war, sought to break the markets of America and rob the farmers of the guarantee which the United States government had promised them as a reward for intensive production.

The American farmers do not forget the foresight which Hoover used in dealing with these foreign cabinets and how he brought to bear all the power of this government to force them to live up to contracts they made during the war.

They do not forget how Hoover led the campaign which forced the European cabinets to abandon their blockade of Germany, which opened the enemy markets to the products of American farms.

These two things maintained the price level of farm products above the congressional guarantee and absorbed at a profit to the farmer, the excess production in all grains and livestock products, which the nation of the American farmer had provided in enormous quantities to insure the feeding of the allied countries, if the war had continued.

The highest prices for hog products which the country had ever known were maintained all through Hoover's administrative period in those broad sections of the country, which are the corn and hog regions of the country. The real farmers of America recognize without question the policies, created and administered by Herbert Hoover, during the greatest period of peace, that agriculture had ever experienced and aside from those interested in the direct subjects, it is perfectly evident that the best farmers of America still loyalty by the intelligent leadership which Hoover displayed in that trying period.

The problem of the farmers is a business problem, possibly the most complicated of our economic questions. It needs the best constructive leadership that the country can produce to apply industrial methods to agricultural production and marketing.

Hoover's outstanding genius in that regard is the strongest hope for a permanent solution, upon sound foundations, of the distressing conditions that have been prevalent for too long in the agricultural communities of our country.

American business is convinced that Herbert Hoover's record in building the great Department of Commerce, which has increased American trade throughout the parts of the world, is the best assurance that his broad policies and leadership will continue properly in America.

For these reasons, agriculture and industry have joined in endorsing the Hoover candidacy, and for these reasons, Herbert Hoover will be nominated this week by the Republican national convention.

DOZEN BOOMS BEGUN FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Political Woods Full of Candidates; Fish Most Active Campaigner

Kansas City, June 12.—The political woods here are full of vice presidential candidates.

While the fight to stop Hoover occupied the center of the arena, a dozen more or less active booms were under way today for the second place nomination.

The most active campaigner was Representative Hamilton Fish of New York. His supporters have been buttonholing delegates in all camps in his behalf. He is on the list approved by veterans' organizations, whose representatives are here to grab the vice presidency for an ex-serviceman.

A strong drive also was being made for Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the House Republican leader.

Others mentioned included Vice President Dawes, whose close friends say he wouldn't take the job again, Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, William J. Donovan of New York, assistant attorney general, Harold MacNider of Iowa, ex-assistant secretary of war, Col. Theodore Roosevelt of New York, Sam Baker of Missouri, C. S. Osborne of Michigan, Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas and Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, who is slated for the permanent chairmanship of the convention.

Curtis is shooting for first place, but his friends said he would accept the vice presidential nomination if the other honor is denied him.

Rotary Club Program Is Outlined and Committees Named by New President

Clarence Brown Announces Plans for Administration at Weekly Meeting Held at Hotel Harding; Dr. Crawford Heads Club Service Committee

Clarence Brown, recently-elected president of the Marion Rotary Club, outlined his plans for his administration and named committee chairmen and members at yesterday's noon meeting in Hotel Harding.

Dr. James Crawford, vice president, heads the club service committee, which is divided into a number of subcommittees with the following chairmen and members:

Classification, Carl Upchurch; program, J. W. Jewell; fellowship, Charles Merkle and Don Howard; education, Jesse H. Mason; public relations, Charles Schaffner and Ralph Lewis; music, Morris Huhn and Charles Colmer; publicity, L. C. Stagg and stunts, Elmer J. Schoenlaub and Harry Foster.

The community service committee is headed by Charles Isaly, with subcommittee chairmen and members as follows:

Boys' work—Walter C. Brown, chairman, and Earl N. Hale, Rev. Howard Otwell, Lou Deming, Horace Ballinger and Morgan Burke.

Crippled children—William Hartholomew, chairman, and James Cooper, Dr. John Dodd, Sam Rosenberg, Dr. E. L. Brady, Harry Haterman and Murray Powers.

Business methods—Roy Prichard, chairman, and Edward Ennesper, William B. Tuay, George Wright, Wilfred Schaffner, Fred B. Schmitt, Charles Turner and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer.

One of the features of yesterday's meeting were two vocal solos by William Wallace, sixth grade student at Olney Avenue School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. May Wallace. William, who is a pupil of both Cecil Fanning of Columbus and Mrs. C. L. Rutherford of Marion, sang "I Love You Truly," and "Till Pan Parade."

But few women have time to look like their portraits.

A free performance for news boys and girls of The Marion Star was announced today by Manager Harry Foster of the Marion Theater. The picture, which is to be shown at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, will be scenes of the marie tournament recently staged in this district by The Columbus Citizens at Columbus under the auspices of the Rotary Club.

John Kinsey, Marion boy who was eliminated in the tournament, and Paul Giltnerleeve, Columbus champion who will go to Atlantic City, will be special guests at the performance.

GIVES ADDRESS

Alfred Donithen Spoke at M. of P. Memorial in Buoyas

Alfred Donithen, Marion attorney, delivered the memorial address at the annual services held last Sunday at the Buoyas Lodge, No. 108, and Uniform Rank, No. 18, Knights of Pythias, of Buoyas.

Following the services at Castle Hall a parade, led by the Buoyas High School Band, marched to the Oakwood Cemetery, where the graves of deceased members of the lodge were decorated. The program at the hall consisted of the invocation by Zeno Kirk, the opening ceremony by officers of the lodge, vocal solos by Mrs. Martha Donithen, address by Alfred Donithen, and the closing ceremony. Donithen, H. Graham, locomotive fireman, and Dr. A. H. McGlothlin are the members of the lodge who have served within the committee in charge of the services. The committee was composed of H. F. L. W. Schaeffer, Robert W. Lamb, C. C. McGlothlin and W. C. Gibson. The flower arrangement was composed of Walter Schaeffer, Fred Judd and Roy Spangler.

ELECT TEACHERS

School Board Announces Names of Instructors for Next Year

At a meeting of the board of education last night, Miss Ametta Nicholson was chosen principal; Miss Evelyn H. mon, home economics instructor; Mrs. Jessie Prettyman, seventh and eighth grades; Miss Marie Dutt, third and fourth grades; Miss Ruby Williams, first and second grades. The remaining teachers of the corps will be chosen at a later date.

For Your Child: Piano Lessons FREE!

—by a method not to be had a few years ago at any price

After only a few lessons,
Children Play Simple Melodies

When children learn to play the "Melody Way" their progress is amazing. Talent is discovered almost immediately—without the need of first buying a piano, or months of humdrum practice. Ten free lessons in our Melody Way classes will prove to you that your child has musical talent, or tell you that further instruction is useless.

Educators recognize this modern method as the big new development in music teaching. Children are taught the natural way. They play melodies instead of practicing scales. Study is made to seem like play. Classes of twenty children awaken group enthusiasm.

No Piano Needed at Home

Children practice their melodies on silent keyboards. The entire outfit for a full year course costs only $2. We provide instruction free—one hour a week for the first ten weeks, under expert teachers.

Melody Way was originated by W. Otto Meissner, an outstanding figure among American musicians, co-author of the music books used in thousands of America's public schools. Past President of the Music Supervisors' National Conference. This method has been adopted by the public schools of more than 200 cities. Over 100,000 children have learned to play the Melody Way.

The melodies have been recorded on Ampico and Duo-Art rolls, and on Victor records. Musicians everywhere are enthusiastic over the remarkable results obtained. Endorsed by leading conservatories. A priceless opportunity in music—free!

Classes now forming. Enroll your child at once. If you can't come in, phone or mail the coupon for free booklet. No enrollment completed by telephone.

THE FRANK BROS. CO.

Cities Hopeful of Victory in Gas Rate Fight, Council Is Informed by Mouser

Attorney and Appraisal Engineer Attend Meeting Here: Court Decision Cited as Point in Favor of Municipalities' Side of Contest

A recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, which ruled that going concern value could not be considered in fixing a rate for utilities, together with the fact that the court and utility commission in the past have looked with favor on testimony presented by Harry Allensworth, appraisal engineer, were held by Grant E. Mouser, Jr., assistant attorney general, as most encouraging evidence of victory in the rate fight with the Logan Gas Co. in a talk before City Council last night.

Mr. Allensworth, who was employed by this city and a number of other municipalities of the state in the rate war on the Gas company was also present at the meeting. He expressed himself from making an address, however, by saying he was an engineer and not a speaker. He congratulated the City Council on its having a man of the caliber of Mr. Mouser to represent the city in the rate fight. The case, he said, had been most admirably prepared and carried on by Mr. Mouser.

Questioned by Councilman When asked by one of the councilmen what assurance he has that the commission would accept his testimony over that of the gas company engineers, Mr. Allensworth said he has no assurance whatever. He pointed out, however, that during the years he has been engaged in appraisal work, the courts in no single instance have refused to accept his testimony. Mr. Allensworth, it was explained by Mr. Mouser later, had spent six years in telephone rate battles in Minnesota and was recently employed by the state of Ohio in a telephone rate investigation.

Testimony in the gas case has been completed and the commission now has the case under advisement. The next step, it was explained by Mr. Allensworth, will be submitting of tentative rates by the commission which will be argued by attorneys for the company and municipalities, and after considering these arguments, a final rate will be established by the commission. The decision of the United States Supreme Court ruling out going concern value in fixing rates, it was declared by Mr. Mouser, would wipe out $4,500,000 from the appraised value of the Logan Gas Co. and since rates are based on the appraised value would play a big part in the securing of lower rates. The ruling was given in the case of the Portsmouth Gas Co., which was seeking higher rates.

NOBLE PLEADS FOR SUPPLIES AT ONCE

Rations via Meager Food So It Will Last for 50 Days

Rome, June 12—In a wireless message received here today, Gen. Umberto Nobile, marooned commander of the dirigible Italia, stated that his radio storage batteries were practically exhausted and that transmission of messages would have to be stopped for a few days until means were devised for recharging them.

In his message Nobile also made an urgent appeal for supplies. He asked for food for his men, rifles and ammunition, medicines, sledges, cigarettes, an oil stove and three pneumatic boats. Nobile advised that he had so rationed his meager food supply that it would last for 50 days. He said that a single red-tinted tent had been erected on a large ice-floe to enable aviators of the relief expedition to sight his crew from the air.

PRELIMINARY NEWS
Rafter from Manger Pango: Nearly All Are Frost-Bitten

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, June 12—Suffering the pangs of hunger, inadequately equipped to combat the inclement weather of the Arctic, and separated into three groups, one of which contained two injured men, the crew of the dirigible was today in a serious predicament on the ice floes northeast of Spitzbergen.

Almost all of the crew of 17 and Gen. Umberto Nobile himself were suffering from frost bite. One of the injured men suffered a broken leg when the gondola of the Italia crashed on the ice in attempting to land. It is feared that the Italia's surgeon may have to amputate the leg but it seems utterly impossible that he will be able to do so.

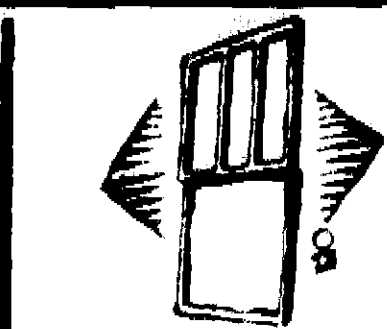

with no facilities at his command. There was no communication here of a report that one of the crew of the Italia was killed outright when the gondola crashed. Another report said Lieut. Luttow Holm, Norwegian aviator, had found the two injured men near Brandy Bay on the north coast of Northeast Land, was also stamped as baseless here.

Daily Proverb—"Good, the more communicated, more abundant grows."

There is this to be said for the plan to fly "The Southern Cross" around the globe; the worst is over.

A New York theatrical producer announces that he will stage "Elmer Gantry." It is evident that New York is not yet wholly tired of Bith.

None of old Admiral von Tirpitz's submarines ever made a hit equal to his remark that "the League of Nations is a declaration of love without the promise of marriage."

"Labor To Ask Both Parties for Beer Plank," reads a headline. If labor wanted to launch a really popular movement, it should have demanded free beer.

"Norris Attacks Coolidge as Timid on the Muscle Shoals Bill," a headline of yesterday read. If George keeps on he is just naturally going to make us laugh.

Communists started a free-for-all fight at the opening session of the Prussian diet, causing its adjournment, and thus the "Great Cause" of "Liberty and Equality" goes on.

A biographer of William J. Bryan finds Governor Smith and the late colonel akin in many respects. We take it into this biographer will admit a few minor differences in a number of trifling matters, such as finances and prohibition.

It has been said that handsome women always marry homely men, and in this connection it may be remarked that the pictures go to show that Miss Lamphier's selection will never be humiliated by being awarded a prize in a male beauty contest.

Governor John G. Richards, of South Carolina, will not go to Houston on the special train of his state delegation as it will travel on Sunday, and hereafter Henry Ford's Way-side Inn will be closed Sundays to permit the forty employees of the inn to have their Sundays to themselves. One is moved by a moral and the other by a social reason. Can it be that there is trend to Sunday observance which has not been recognized?

Coming as it did nine days ahead of the scheduled season, we naturally assume that the weatherman gave us yesterday merely that newcomers within our gates might have a forecast of Marion's ideal summer weather.

The real owner of the first prize ticket for $1,310,000 in the Calcutta sweepstakes on the Epsom derby is an eight-month-old baby in whose name the ticket was purchased by the baby's father. If the proceeds are held under a trusteeship until the babe attains its majority, it will prove one case in which the regular rule in connection with money won by gambling will not hold.

London reports that one of the rarest snails in the collection of the British museum—supposedly a dead one—which made its getaway by eating the glue which held it to the piece of cardboard upon which it had calmly reposed for two decades, was recovered last week in a far-distant wing of the museum. Is the reaction to that Texas horned toad story to be manifested indefinitely?

Thousands of Happy Hearts.

Monday was certainly a great day for the boys and girls of the Just Kids Safety club. They had the time of their lives up at Crystal Lake. Even the weatherman worked to make the day a happy one for the youngsters. The day before he turned on the sunshine to dry the ground after the recent rains, and yesterday he fairly outdid himself, providing a bright blue sky with just enough warmth in the sun's rays to make the temperature ideal. It was neither too cool nor too warm, but just right.

And the youngsters! There were literally thousands of them. Big boys and girls, and little boys and girls, and boys and girls all the way between. Blue-eyed boys and girls, brown-eyed boys and girls, auburn-haired boys and girls with heads of tow. And almost every one of them, if not all, carried a sack, or a basket, or a bucket with good things inside, which he or she enjoyed in addition to the eats and drinks furnished up at the park. And they ran, and played, and swam, and enjoyed every attraction at the park, the roller coaster excepted. And each received a souvenir.

There have been many crowds at the park up north of the city, but none like that of Monday. There may have been as big a crowd some time in the past—but certainly never one so manfully pleased and happy, and there is no room for doubt in regard to this second procession, whatever. Joy and sunshine were reflected in every face. If there was a single pang or a bit of disappointment in any youthful breast, there was no record of it on any face.

In the reckoning of the boys and girls of the Just Kids Safety club, Monday, June 11, will be long remembered as a red-letter day.

Awful Indictment of Cook County.

At the suggestion of the Bar association of Chicago and in response to its urging, the law-abiding people of that city are raising a fund of $150,000 with which to defray the expense of a special grand jury investigation of the Bar association's charges that there is an alliance between politics and crime in that community which is in large part responsible for ballot box frauds, the slugging and intimidation of voters, repeated bombings, many assassinations and other crimes against person and property.

One might naturally think that the expense of such an investigation would fall upon the county and that authorization for it would be voted by the commissioners. Such would be the course ordinarily, but not in Chicago under present-day conditions. Instead a number of the county commissioners have held aloof from the meetings of that board to make such authorization impossible. They do not refuse to vote funds; they simply exercise care not to be in position where they may be called upon to vote in authorization of the needed funds.

In some respects Cook county has been maligned. There are a number of localities in which the death rate per capita is higher than that of Cook county, which, for the purpose of this writing is synonymous with the city of Chicago, but we know of no blacker stain upon any community than this in which the legal authorities up there refuse to take action to supply funds with which to war on crime.

Cook county has had many riots in the past in which many, in the aggregate, have been killed. She has had holdups almost without number, and the same may be said in regard to bombings up there. Gangsters shoot up her streets, making them the scenes of their battles. Bandits murder and rob her citizens. Rum runners and bootleggers openly defy the law. The Chicago papers speak of saloons, saloonists and bartenders just as they did before the Volstead bill became a law. The police authorities refer to them in the same matter-of-course way. So little reliance is placed upon the police authorities and the courts that one Chicago business man recently took into partnership a notorious gangster for the protection of himself and his property—a plank, it may be said, which thus far has brought excellent results, for no attempts at violence have been made against either his person or his property since he took the gang leader into association with him, although they were frequent previously.

Yet all these facts combined contribute less of an indictment of conditions in Cook county than the studied inactivity of the authorities in suppressing crime and the handicaps they interpose to its suppression.

George Bernard Shaw holds that surplus money is the root of all evil. It's fairly safe to say that the evils from which the most of us suffer are very indifferently rooted.

At the end of 290 hours six couples were still dancing in a marathon up in Chicago and a flag-pole sitter who had been on his perch since May 19 had broken the record by forty-eight hours. Who dare longer question that the great cause of civilization and enlightenment is making progress?

Two and Two-Thirds Billions.

During the course of a debate shortly before the adjournment of congress, Senator Tydings, of Maryland, pointed out that almost $4,000,000,000 had been expended for military purposes by sixty-one foreign nations during the course of the past year, and that the United States had loaned to foreign nations during the same period $2,618,000,000, just about two thirds of the total paid out by the sixty-one on their military establishments.

The unfair inference might be drawn from this, that the people of the United States had loaned foreign governments about two-thirds of what they paid out for military purposes. Such a conclusion would be decidedly erroneous. The bulk of the money loaned by United States financial institutions did not go to foreign governments, but to foreign municipalities and foreign enterprises for productive uses. But little, if any, of the great aggregate of the loans made by us went for either the maintaining or the upbuilding of military machines.

But even so, are not our financial institutions going rather too deeply into foreign investments for the safety of those who are accepting foreign evidences of obligation for the funds they have to invest? Is not $2,618,000,000 rather a large aggregate investment in foreign securities in any one year?

It is eminently right and proper that we should assist Europeans and other foreigners financially, when there is need of assistance, as there seems to have been ever since the inauguration of the World war, but isn't there danger that we may overstep the bounds of safety? Isn't there danger that we may put them under such obligations that they may become unable to bear the burden of them? We do not profess to be versed in finance, but even in this land of billions, two and two-thirds billions make a formidable aggregate of foreign loans in one year! How long will our debtors be able to take on such added yearly burdens and bear up under the weight of the obligations they assume?

"After being such a fool I have a right to do whatever I like with my life," were the words of one of C. C. Pyle's derby runners just before he attempted to commit suicide in New York City. If it's any consolation to him, it may be said that if it hadn't been for the conviction that there are a lot of fools in the country, the derby never would have been started.

The political enemies of Governor Al. Smith say that the New York state treasury surplus of $13,505,000 for the year announced by him "is a forced surplus, created by the levy of deficiency taxation, the wild bull market in Wall street, and the lamented, but convenient deaths, of two millionaires." It might have been better politics to have ignored the surplus than to have made him out the child of such bull-headed luck.

COME OF THE AUDIENCE ALWAYS GET DISAPPOINTED.

The Old "Misery."

BY ROYAL N. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the ailments which people write me about almost more than anything else is chronic arthritis. This is an inflammation of the joints and tissues immediately around them. Almost everybody speaks of this trouble as rheumatism.

I assume that arthritis is one of the oldest of diseases of which we have any record. Among common people it used to be called "misery." It is confused with neuritis, lumbago, sciatica, and a lot of other ailments.

Among the causes of arthritis and rheumatic conditions of this type we find strains, infections, and the changes which come as a result of age. To relieve the symptoms, carbofide of patent medicines and barrels of liniments have been used. It is the joy of quacks and charlatans.

Arthritis differs from acute rheumatic fever which comes on suddenly, causing severe pain in the joints. All at once it leaves one joint to attack another one. When the disease wears out, no deformity is left. It may affect the heart, but the joint troubles disappear.

It is safe to assume that the germs responsible for arthritis have had an abiding place in some other part of the body. There has been what we call a focus of infection. There may be pusy tonsils, abscesses at the roots of the teeth, diseases of the nasal sinuses, a running ear, or trouble in the gall bladder or the genitourinary organs.

What we call auto-intoxication has been held responsible by a good many for the production or aggravation of arthritis. I have no question that obstinate constipation may aggravate a case of arthritis. It is doubtful, however, if this region is a frequent cause of such attacks.

I have told you a great many times about certain diseases that it is better to prevent them than to attempt to cure them. That is true of this disease. As a matter of fact, after the joints have become infected, the chronic trouble is not likely to be permanently cured by removing the focus of infection.

I do not need to tell you how necessary it is to take good care of the teeth. They should be thoroughly cleaned every day. X rays occasionally, and whenever there is any sign of trouble you should have the dentist make the necessary repair.

I may say of all the other organs that if there is trouble it should be corrected. In other words, the focus of infection should be removed if possible.

Tomorrow I will speak of the treatment.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUIZES.

T. V. Q.—What causes shingles or herpes of the face? How can it be treated?

A.—A nerve condition brought about by some infection is a possible cause. Overwork and worry are also factors. The patient should be under the care of a doctor and should follow his advice most carefully.

C. A. P. Q.—I have ringing noises in my head; began having this trouble after being operated upon for gonorrhea; what would you advise?

A.—May be due to a nervous condition or to catarrh. Have an examination to locate the exact cause and then definite treatment can be advised.

J. B. Q.—What will clear up indigestion and nervousness. The patient is in a run-down condition?

A.—The general health should receive first attention. The nervousness and indigestion will no doubt improve as the health improves. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Editorial Opinion.

VOICE FROM THE SOUTH.

President Leguia, of Peru, speaks up for the United States in a manner gratifying to all true friends of Latin-American right relationship. The Peruvian president defends the foreign policy of this government as free from any taint of imperialism. He insists that the preponderant influence of the United States in Latin-America is necessary to protect the vast North American interests, and because the United States is "so rich industrially and so progressive and on account of the perfection of its culture."

Concerning the Monroe doctrine, President Leguia said in his recent address: "The Monroe doctrine assures the independence of both continents." And very wisely he observed that economic expansion should not be condemned because it will aid in relieving the Americas from economic slavery. His conception of the relationship between the countries of the American continents is that they shall live to fulfill a supreme destiny—"live for the fraternity born of love and for the peace born of labor."

President Leguia said that the Havana conference proved that Pan-Americanism is a splendid reality, which can not be destroyed "by foreigners that ignore our life or by our own Americans that traduce our history." Pan-Americanism has established mortal economic legions over all America.

The Peruvian executive asserted that his own desire is "to stimulate commerce of peoples instead of fomenting hatreds" because he believes it to be "a duty to link his nation without boundaries on its sovereignty to the United States of North America, instead of fomenting distrust toward them."

It is men like Leguia, President Machado, of Cuba, Charles Evans Hughes and Ambassador Morrow who are molding the Western hemisphere into the mightiest association of political sovereignties the world has known. They have long recognized this work as the great problem for the Western world, and they have made mighty strides toward such imperial political hegemony, which includes every political division of the continent, from Canada to Patagonia.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE ARSENAL'S IDLENESS.

Philip Kindley of the staff of the Chicago Tribune, taking a look about the United States arsenal here, terms it "a monument to unpreparedness."

Six to eight millions would be required to produce newly-designed guns after war began. If the arsenal were put at work on this equipment the first soldiers to take the field would be supplied with a more efficient weapon. Failure to pursue such a course necessitates the use of antiquated and inferior equipment. It is to needlessly sacrifice the advance guard of the army.

We were forced to rely upon French. When our soldiers were sent to France because of our failure to prepare for the inevitable war.

The government and congress of the United States persist in that folly today. The philosophy of such a policy is that human life is cheaper than keeping our war machine up to date.

In directing attention to the idleness at the Rock Island arsenal the Chicago Tribune, which circulates widely in the Central West, performs a service to the nation.

Public sentiment must first be aroused if the arsenal is to be of maximum value to the nation. The private munition makers can be kept busy to the impairment of the usefulness of the government institution only as long as the people of the country are unaware of this effect of the present policy.

It will not be until an aggressive campaign is made on behalf of the arsenal that the $200,000,000 national investment will be put to good use.

We are wasteful of public funds in peace as well as in war. The profiteer we hate with us always. The Rock Island arsenal is idle for the reason that it is highly profitable for private manufacturers who are influential at Washington to keep it out of the bidding.—Inverport Times.

Gas.

BY GARRETT T. SERVING.
Not the gas that drives your motor, but the gas you use for a cushion in your tires, which make "washboard roads" endurable though agonizing.

The gas in tires is air, the most familiar kind of gas. Matter exists in three states—solid, liquid and gaseous. A solid may be either rigid like a stone, or elastic like a piece of rubber and it may be very dense or very porous. A liquid flows like water. A gas expands in all directions as it moves. A gas expands in all directions as it moves. A gas expands in all directions as it moves.

Fill a bottle with a gas, then let a little escape. What remains will expand and fill the whole bottle again. Let more out and the same thing recurs. The gas in the bottle becomes less dense, but always it continues to fill the entire space.

Solids, liquids and gases are all made of the same things—molecules of matter. In the solid, the molecules are held in a firm union; in the liquid the union is less complete, and the molecules are free to move over one another, but can not fly away against gravity; in the gas the molecules unless restrained by external resistance move freely in every sense. Sir Oliver Lodge once made a definition which has become famous:

A solid has volume and shape; a liquid has volume, but no shape; a gas has neither volume nor shape.

Now we are specially concerned with the gas called air, as it behaves inside an automobile tire. Outside in the atmosphere you can not ride on air unless you're a Lindbergh. It pushes equally in all directions, nearly fifteen pounds on every square inch of surface. It took thousands of years for man to find out, by mechanical cunning, how to make air push him up and keep him up in the open atmosphere. But to make a wheel of air to ride on over the ground was hardly a less notable achievement.

First, an elastic tubular rim for the airy wheel had to be made. Nature furnished the proper material in the gum of the rubber tree. Until the rubber tire is inflated with air it lies limp. To inflate it you must force in air at more than the natural atmospheric pressure. As you do so the tire swells out and becomes more and more like a solid, but very elastic, body. Its semi-rigidity is due to the compressed gas that presses its walls outward on sides. Let that out and the tire falls flat. When the tire is in riding order you are really riding on gas. The rubber rim is only incidentally a device for keeping the air imprisoned, so that its expansive force can be utilized in the way you want it.

The manner in which the air inside the tire acts is the most singular part of the story. What cushions you up so delightfully as you spin over the gravel or the pavement is the wild pugilism of the maddened molecules of air pressed and crowded almost beyond endurance, and subjected momentarily to fierce squeezes as the rim hits the stones. The molecules which by nature represent the very type of the spirit of complete freedom, are squeezed into a closeness of approach that they abhor, and they hit back at one another and at the confining inclosure with a fury and violence which rapidly increase as the heat in their Calcutta Hole grows more intolerable.

Heat is the motive power of the gaseous molecules. By long-continued fast driving you may increase temperature among the battling molecules inside your tires until, at a sudden shock, the rubber bursts under the strain, and the invisible prisoners, with a yell condensed like a pistol crack, find instantaneous relief and freedom in the open air, shouting heavenward in the exultation of recovered freedom, the joy of gas unconfined.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYER.
New York, June 12.—Perhaps no America responds so enthusiastically to a parade as New York. It costs Fifth merchants thousands a year as a result of suspension of business while parading by.

There are countless New Yorkers who wear uniforms. Will march themselves in the parade is a definite part of the polition consciousness—the irresistible urge to be noticed. Men of heavy affairs wear down their desk tops to wear a plume.

The parade is such an attraction has been seized upon by press agencies method of exploiting subtly certain profits for which they have been retained. Last year two of these spectacular stunts thus been engineered.

New York seems divided between the parade and those just as eager to get from the sidewalk. Spectators will beg Fifth Avenue curbs before daylight on a parade is scheduled to march. We can not interfere.

Merchants board up plate glass windows of entrance ways. Ambulances waiting in side streets of every block, offering an excellent view are sold at a figures. Even speculators make their of salable space.

Roof-tops and window ledges drip goggles-eyed humanity. There have numerous accidents among those who from perilous positions while waiting parade to pass. Indeed, a parade is a only thing that makes New York paid road rush.

It will cheer itself hoarse and go hushed in hysterical happiness. Dr. Lindbergh welcome parade it was did an hour after the parade passed there a telephone book left in the biggest dog skyscraper. They had been frantically to use as confetti.

Tenth avenue in the Forties is in the usual summer isolation. The picture camera who trail the circus and carnivals have departed from their camps. Tenth avenue is their winter and will not be seen until fall.

Despite their migratory calling, most are uncannily thrifty, and come back with sufficient funds to butter over days. There are restaurants along that that are rendezvous for clowns, acrobats, walkers and such.

And others patronized almost exclusively, thimble riggers, barkers and of the fly-by-night herd who thrive on gullibility. There is also a boarding human freaks.

On Tenth avenue there is what is k "hawdust aristocracy." Certain groups gain a rigid aloofness from other groups circles it would be known as class consciousness. Yet in distress, all are lend a helping hand to their fellows.

Professional beggars find the Black Harlem one of the most prolific spots York for aims-seeking. Particularly, hawdust aristocracy, who are not other forms of gambling are held. That winners have a superstitious fear of a beggar. The Chinese, too, rarely a mendicant's plea.

And with one exception there has never a Chinese picked up by the police for a Ho was Old Horse and Wagon, a blind Chinatown character of ten years who now sleeps with his ancestors.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Don't imagine the school teacher has life. Startling figures come from the New York. Seventy-seven per cent. teachers who retired because of ill health state in the past few years retired the age of fifty-five. With proper habits and resting habits and proper care and women ought to be doing their best at fifty-five or over. Sixty per cent. of teachers were between the ages of 40 and fifty, while fourteen per cent. working between forty and forty-five.

Teaching is hard, nerve-racking. Teachers deserve all the encouragement get from parents—and a great deal more.

Dr. F. Strickland Goodall, prominent heart specialist, tells us that while death cancer in the past few years there are only twenty-five per cent. deaths from trouble have increased 400 per cent. mental and emotional strain of modern held responsible. Says Dr. Goodall:

"The whole of modern life cuts up; it tends to increase emotion; and emotion increases heart strain."

It was once said—and it has been ever since—that the love of money is the root of all evil. In this modern day it might be said that the love of publicity is the root of all evil. It is the exceptional individual does not crave the attention of others; he is so highly developed in other respects becomes abnormal. Of such are the chief reasons for their crimes. A who are not criminals and are not at a long way, openly or secretly, themselves in a particularly favorable force their friends.

Man in the long ages has won his against the dark. For hundreds of thousands of years he may have found no means of fighting the night. Even up until sixteenth century, when oil was discovered in large quantities, man had to make a small fire to fight against the shadows. Candles were adequate. Oil lamps lighted him far way. Now scientists are predicting the development of some substitute for the new electric light.

In many ways the life of man has changed in the past seventy years than thirty centuries preceding.

Attractive Setting Arranged For Bucyrus Flower Exhibit

An English garden has been chosen as the setting for the second annual flower show to be held June 14, 15 and 16 at the Y. M. C. A. building, under the auspices of members of the Bucyrus Federation of Women's Clubs. Among the features being arranged is a fountain, a walled garden, a special children's corner and an old well. Arrangement of cut flowers for formal and informal affairs also will be featured.

Reservations for exhibits have been made by florists from Cincinnati, Toledo, Cleveland, Columbus, Mansfield, Maumee, Van Wert, Clyde and Lima, and it is expected that there will be more than 100 different displays. Awards will be offered on the various exhibits and judges will be W. R. Shumway, of Tiffin, and F. J. Farnsworth, of Galva.

The show will be open on each of the days from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night.

PLAN PROGRAM

Members of Marion Shrine To Hold Ceremonial June 25

Further plans for the ceremonial Monday night, June 25, were made at the meeting of members of Marion Shrine, No. 15, Order of White Shrine of Jerusalem last night at Masonic Temple, E. Church-st. It was decided to invite members of Naumi Shrine, No. 10, Mansfield, to attend the ceremonial. A number of applications for membership were received.

Presiding the meeting was served by a committee of which Mrs. H. O. Tombs presided as chairman.

ROOF INSURANCE

EVIDENCE of development in aerial transportation is seen appearing from many angles. Cities are establishing landing fields, that is, those cities which take pride in being up-to-the-minute, and Marion is in that category.

Following the early bird theory, one local insurance agency is advertising policies providing remuneration for property damaged by falling aircraft. If a fraudulent plane happens to descend through the roof of a home, the new insurance will pay for repairs.

The cost is low, averaging about three cents a week, and an improvement in airplane construction continues, lessening the danger of aerobics serving as landing planes, and insurance premium rate is certain to decrease.

FIGHTING CRIME

PROPOSED changes in Ohio's criminal code, which were discussed at a recent meeting held under the auspices of the Marion County Bar Association, are intended to make this state less popular with law violators.

Four of the outstanding amendments make these new and important provisions:

1—Life imprisonment for the habitual criminal. 2—Right of judges to comment on the evidence. 3—Right of prosecuting attorneys to comment on fact. 4—Give the prosecution the same number of peremptory challenges as the defense.

A special committee representing the state legislature has been working on the reorganization for a year and a half and will submit its report at the next legislative session. Meetings, similar to the one held here recently, are being conducted throughout the state for the purpose of gathering ideas and suggestions from leading lawyers and judges. The legal fraternity here, as well as in all other communities of the state, are virtually a unit in supporting the codification project.

SMALL DETAILS

SAFETY of human life is never abnormally secure, even under the most favorable circumstances.

A small girl, walking along one of the main uptown streets one day last week, was struck by a heavy screen which fell from a window of a business block. The child was stunned by the accident but luckily escaped serious injury.

Showing that even such small details as providing secure fastenings for window screens must be given attention if human safety is to be assured.

ALL BOOSTERS

ALTHOUGH definite plans have not been announced, it is understood that a movement is to be launched for giving Marion a number of urgently needed new school buildings.

The subject is already being discussed to a large extent and all indications are that the project will be given universal approval among local citizens. That is almost invariably the case with any campaign for betterment of the public school system. Citizens may oppose some public improvement enterprises but rarely are known to take exceptions to any plan for providing better educational facilities for their children.

The present high school building is much too small for both present and future needs and it is generally agreed that there should be a larger and better equipped substitute.

CAMPING OUT

IF boys of today are not better morally, physically and mentally than their fathers and grandfathers were when the same age, it is not because facilities and advantages are lacking.

Modern convenience for giving the youngsters wholesome and uplifting vacation periods provide one outstanding bit of evidence.

When dad and granddad went camping in the summer months they obtained an old tent which served fairly well as long as there was no rain. Then they journeyed to a river bank near town, equipped with an outfit of cooking utensils discarded by mother and whiled away a week or so battling mosquitoes and night crawlers.

The experience was one of rare enjoyment, even though it frequently meant a return home following the first heavy rain, with the campers drenched to the skin.

Now Marion boys have two model camps furnished for their summer pleasure. Camp Robert Chier at Hopkinton, operated by the Y. M. C. A., and Camp John A. Owens, conducted by the Boy Scouts, are equipped with practically every convenience found at home in addition to being ideally located for the standpoint of recreation.

Both camps are closely supervised and regulated to guarantee health and safety of the campers but not enough to deprive them of enjoyment. Nothing like that existed in the days of father and grandfathers.

GO TO ASSEMBLY

Marion Residents To Attend Nazarene Church Meeting

Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Waddie, Mrs. James Fies, Mrs. William Dowler, and Mrs. E. E. Mealy, left today for Columbus to attend the general assembly of the Church of Nazarenes at Memorial Hall, June 15-20. Mrs. E. E. Koller and son, Clifford, and Mrs. Leonard Shepherd left yesterday for the convention.

Improved Kotex Lowered Prices

Now 45c, was 65c formerly—great volume puts Kotex within reach of all

A MILLION new users hearing of the remarkable improvements in Kotex, have come to know it in the past few months.

They had heard that this wonderful sanitary pad, leader in its field, and the first disposable pad ever offered women, had been made—

Infinitely softer and more comfortable, ending binding and chafing—Shaped for better fitting—for non-leakability when worn.

They found it superior, as always, in its other features. In high and instant absorbency, for instance. In disposability, too. Kotex fills in women soluble, so disposing of it is a problem no longer.

Kotex deodorizes actively when worn. And simple to purchase wherever you are—at any drug, dry goods or department store.

The great demand made prices much lower

This greatly increased demand by women meant greater manufacturing efficiency. And now, instead of charging more for the improved Kotex, we are happy to announce that we are passing on savings.

Today, instead of being disappointed because of the high cost of Kotex, at the drug store, department store,

Love's Awakening

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADRIE GARRISON

Marion reveals her hidden treasure. "Will you come over here, Auntie Madge?" Marion asked, when she had locked the door of her room, and I rose from my chair and crossed the room to the cedar chest which I know is one of her proudest possessions. Her mother gave it to her upon her fourteenth birthday, but Marion always has devoted only part of its space to keeping mementoes away from her wooden trunk. The rest is assigned to the heterogeneous collection of treasures which romancers accumulate.

She opened it and began to dump upon the floor the objects comprising the top layer. A huge stamp album, two or three fancy work-baskets, each containing, I knew, several unfinished pieces of needlework, an elaborate outfit for making artificial beads, a coloring outfit, a file of her favorite magazine, a collection of ship pictures—a number of photographs taken by herself—all these piled around me before she lifted from the bottom of the chest a box which I had seen once or twice before, and which I greatly admired.

It was an old-fashioned sandalwood lock box, probably more than a century old. It was surprisingly thick of wood, so that there was but little space inside of it. Lillian had told me years before that it belonged to her mother-in-law and that the old woman had kept in it her few old-fashioned bits of jewelry. She always had said that it would belong to Marion some day, and a few weeks before she died, she asked to see her granddaughter alone. When Marion came out bitterly weeping, she carried the box with her. Lillian had told me of the persistence with which Marion clung to the box, insisting that she have a trunk with a key into which she could put it, and how she always kept the key hidden. My friend had told me the child's oddity of behavior to her exasperated love for her grandmother, but suddenly, as I looked at the box and saw Marion's tense face, I wondered if there was something really of importance concealed in the box, something which was a part of the "secret" which the young girl wished to tell me. "You know this was my grandmother's box," Marion said as she held it up before me.

"Yes, I have seen it before," I answered. "But there's something about it you don't know," she said excitedly, "something which nobody knows in all the world except me. But I'm going to tell you now, for I want somebody else to know it. Then if anything happened to me, you could tell mother."

I waited for her revelation, but instead of speaking, she sat down in the nearest chair and ran her fingers over the box curiously, as if it were something sentimental. And when she spoke it was reminiscently.

"You know I lived with my grandmother before we both came to live with mother," she began. "My grandmother liked my mother, but she used to whisper to me that she didn't want me to forget my father."

"He wasn't a very good man, even if he was my son," she used to say, "and that awful woman—she meant the woman my father married—has taken all the money. But he's looked out for you, darling and the fortune's all here. It isn't worth anything now, so don't look at it, but it will be. But you mustn't tell your mother anything about it, and you mustn't do anything about it until you're eighteen. By that time the fortune'll come true. Then you can give your mother anything you want to. But you mustn't tell her anything about it until you're eighteen, for she might spoil it all."

There is historic ability in most young girls and Marion possesses her full share of it. I could see the dying old woman as she laid the injunction upon her little granddaughter.

"My grandmother made me promise her solemnly that my mother should know nothing about the box until I was eighteen," she repeated. "But she didn't know you," she went on with ingenious sophistry, "so it won't be breaking my promise to tell you. Look here!"

She turned a key in the lock of the box, threw up the lid and gratefully removed the old trinkets it contained. Then she removed the top tray and peered upon the center of the shallow second tray. It divided in the center and rose, exposing a secret compartment beneath in which were crowded three long envelopes.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDITH MONTIER LEWIS

It gets light so early now that I don't have to make a light to let Jubilee down, and find my parts with. When I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth this morning a man stopped out in the front of the house and looked in between the two houses and saw me letting him down, and he said, "Is there anything a boy won't do?" I said, "What do you mean, boy?" He looked surprised and said, "Are you a girl?" "Don't I look like one?" I asked him, and he said, "You certainly do and a mighty pretty one, too," and I put my finger in my mouth and said, "Thank you," and he said wouldn't I like to go for a ride sometime in his snooty little car. I said I didn't believe he had a car, and he told me if I would come down he would show me, so I told him to wait. I went down and knocked on my aunt's door and told her there was a man out in front that wanted to see her, and she said "Good gracious!" and hurried out of bed and asked around the room like a grasshopper. I went and peeked through the curtain of the front room and the man was leaning his back against the fence with both arms over it, and then I heard my aunt open the front door, and there he was. She said to him what did he want, and he said he wanted to take her for that ride he promised her. My aunt said when did he promise her a ride, and he said he had promised her one and she knew it and he was ready to make good, though he must say she looked different since she had got her clothes on. By that time my aunt had got near enough to call him an insulting wretch and slap his face. He began to pick them up and lay them down, but she chased him almost to the corner. I don't know where his snooty car was but I bet he stepped on it when he got in it. When my aunt came in I was just taking the milk pail down, and I asked her what the man wanted. She said the man had mistook her for another girl and for me to shut my head and go on and milk my cows. I wanted to not her if she said another girl, but I didn't dare.

We went in swimming in the creek in the pasture, and on the way home we caught a pretty good sized snake, but we broke its back pushing down on it with a stick. We made some spurs and tried to bandage it up with White-eye handkerchiefs, but it wouldn't hold still, so we killed it. A snake is about the hardest thing to bandage there is unless it is a single worm.

We went down to the meadow by the lake shore and it wild strawberries till Niba got in a fight with the Lost Dog of Trips and chased him all the way home, and the rest of us went along to see if he caught him. He didn't. No squirrel yet.

The Mystery at Styles

THE YEAR'S MOST BAFFLING SERIAL STORY

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

What Has Happened to For Jean Cavendish invites Hastings, an old friend, home on sick leave, to spend a month at Styles Court, owned by his step-mother. She has recently married Alfred Inglethorp, distressed by John, his wife Mary and his brother Lawrence. Soon after Hastings' arrival, Miss Howard, Mrs. Inglethorp's companion, discovers the new husband as a scoundrel and leaves, begging Hastings to look out for Mrs. Inglethorp, who, she says, is beset by a host of sharks after her money. With Lawrence, Hastings calls on Cynthia Murdoch, who lives at the court but works in a dispensary. They have quite a discussion about poison. Following a quarrel with her husband, Mrs. Inglethorp is mysteriously stricken during the night and dies. Inglethorp happens to be out of the house that evening with Dr. Bauerstein, a London specialist who is journeying in the neighborhood. Hastings persuades John to allow Mr. Poirot, an old friend and a famous detective, to investigate his mother's death. Poirot discovers a number of clues. Inglethorp pretends great grief. Hastings concludes that Mrs. Inglethorp was poisoned by strychnine in a cup of cocoa brought to her late at night. Poirot is indifferent to the suggestion and Hastings loses confidence in him. Lawrence feels that his mother died from natural causes. The family lawyer arrives and it becomes clear that Mrs. Inglethorp's fortune goes to her husband as her re-marriage automatically revokes will leaving everything to John. Poirot proves that Mrs. Inglethorp made a will on the very day of her death and that that will has disappeared. Miss Howard comes back. Poirot discovers to his amazement that Mrs. Inglethorp's dispatch case which he himself had locked, has been forced open although the door to the room was locked. Hastings twists Mary over her friendship with Dr. Bauerstein and asks Poirot to explain how he discovered that Mrs. Inglethorp had made a will the afternoon before her death.

Now to on with the story

CHAPTER 15

Poirot smiled. "My dear, have you ever, when writing a letter, been arrested by the fact that you did not know how to spell a certain word?"

"Yes, often. I suppose every one has."

"Exactly. And have you not, in such a case, tried the word once or twice on the edge of the blotting-paper, or a spare scrap of paper, to see if it looked right? Well, that is what Mrs. Inglethorp did. You will notice that the word 'poisoned' is spelt first with one 's' and subsequently with two—correctly."

"To make sure she had further tried it in a sentence, then? I am persuaded. Now, what did that tell me? It told me that Mrs. Inglethorp had been writing the word 'poisoned' that afternoon, and having the fragment of paper found in the grate fresh in my mind, the possibility of a will—a document signed certain to contain that word—occurred to me at once."

"The possibility was confirmed by a further circumstance. In the general confusion, the body had not been swept that morning, and near the door were several traces of brown muddy and white. The window had been partially open for some days, and no ordinary boots would have left such a heavy deposit."

"I strolled to the window, and sure enough they the footprints had been newly planted. The mould in the beds was exactly similar to that on the floor of the boudoir, and also I learnt from you that they had been planted yesterday afternoon.

"I was not sure that one, or possibly both of the gardeners—for there were two sets of footprints in the bed—had entered the boudoir, for if Mrs. Inglethorp had merely wished to speak to them she would in all probability have stood at the window, and they would not have come into the room at all."

"I was now quite convinced that she had made a fresh will, and had called the two gardeners in to witness her signature. Events proved that I was right in my supposition."

"That was very ingenious," I could not help admitting. "I must confess that the conclusions I drew from those few scribbled words were quite erroneous."

He smiled. "You gave too much rein to your imagination. Imagination is a good servant, and a bad master. The simplest explanation is always the most likely."

"Another point—how did you know that the key of the dispatch case had been lost?"

"I did not know it. It was a guess that turned out to be correct. You observed that it had a piece of twisted wire through the handle. That suggested to me at once that it had possibly been wrenched off a flimsy key-ring. Now, if it had been lost and recovered, Mrs. Inglethorp would at once have replaced it on her bunch; but on her bunch I found what was obviously the duplicate key, very new and brightly which led me to the hypothesis that somebody else had inserted the original key in the lock of the dispatch case."

"Yes," I said. "Alfred Inglethorp, without doubt."

Poirot looked at me curiously. "You are very sure of his guilt?"

"Well, naturally. Every fresh circumstance seems to establish it more clearly."

"On the contrary," said Poirot quietly, "there are several points in his favor."

of the will, prove that during the night some one entered the room. You agree so far?"

"Perfectly. But with admirable clearness. Pleased."

"Well," I said, encouraged, "as the person who entered did not do so by the window, nor by miraculous means, it follows that the door must have been opened from inside by Mrs. Inglethorp herself. That strengthens the conviction that the person in question was her husband. She would naturally open the door to her own husband."

Poirot shook his head. "Why should she? She had bolted the door leading into his room—a most unusual proceeding on her part—she had had a most violent quarrel with him that very afternoon. No, he was the last person she would admit."

"But you agree with me that the door must have been bolted by Mrs. Inglethorp herself?"

"There is another possibility. She may have forgotten to bolt the door into the passage when she went to bed, and have got up later, towards morning, and bolted it then."

"Poirot, is that seriously your opinion?"

"No, I do not say it is so, but it might be. Now, to turn to another feature, what do you make of the scrap of conversation you overheard between Mrs. Cavendish and her mother-in-law?"

"I had forgotten that," I said thoughtfully. "That is an enigmatical as ever. It seems incredible that a woman like Mrs. Cavendish, proud and reticent to the last degree, should interfere so violently in what was certainly not her affair."

"Precisely. It was an astonishing thing for a woman of her breeding to do."

"It is certainly curious," I agreed. "Still, it is unimportant, and need not be taken into account."

"What have I always told you? Everything must be taken into account. If the fact will not fit the theory—let the theory go."

"Because smooth skin charms people so, it is a first essential for screen stardom—no make-up can fake it. The super-smooth skin that can defy the merciless revelation of the close-up lights—every successful star possesses it."

SOMEWHERE deep down it thrills you—the tender, flower-like freshness of a smooth, well-cared-for skin.

Audiences grow tense when the close-up brings the star's radiant loveliness near to them.

Motion picture directors know this. That is why they insist on the utter perfection of "studio skin." Because make-up is almost useless under the blazing lights of the close-up, every star must keep her skin exquisite, radiant.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. In Hollywood, there are 433 actresses doing important work, including all stars. 417 of these use this fragrant, white soap—96%!

All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms. You, too, will love the smoothness it gives your skin!

"Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only expensive French soaps could give," says RENE ADORÉ, dark, exotic Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star. "It certainly is a lovely soap—I do enjoy it."

RENE DANIELA, pleasant Paramount star and the distinctive bathroom deodorant for her loveliness—

"The girl with smooth skin need not fear the relentless eye of the camera. Even the closest make-up will not suffice under the searching lens of the close-up. The wonderful luxury of Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping the skin smooth and beautiful."

Rene Daniela
